MAM in the Neighborhood

Miami Art Museum's successful outreach program, MAM in the Neighborhood, has served the community in unique ways for three consecutive summers, meeting educational needs and supporting the creativity of Miami-Dade County youth.

In 2001, MAM trained teachers and artists engaged underserved Little Havana area children in a variety of art projects and field trips. The program culminated with the creation of a 27-foot mural, beautifying a Little Havana street with swirling colors and positive messages.

The focus in 2002 intensified as twenty Booker T. Washington Senior High School students went to work researching their neighborhood's history and studying video, interview, and script-writing techniques. The result was an award-winning documentary entitled Overtown in the Making.

For 2003, MAM in the Neighborhood expanded its scope by partnering with the Miami-Dade Parks and Recreation Department. Park centers received visits from MAM Gallery Teachers and received free individual and group art materials and activities. The exhibition American Tableaux: Many Voices, Many Stories was featured on free field trips to the museum. Children participated in the "Miami Stories" project, contributing to a collection of personal tales and images that reflect our diverse community. Over 3,500 people took part.

The program will keep reaching out to even more children in 2004 by connecting with community centers and youth organizations, enhancing learning experiences and enriching lives through art.

For the Love of Art
Ball

Director's
Message

In December MAM's twentieth Ball, For the Love of Art Ball, was a resounding success! Our Ball co-chairs, Toni and Carl Randolph, Terry and Rob Schechter, and Cesar Alvarez, went all out to make this year's Ball a grand success. The Silent Auction, ably run by Steven Neckman and his committee, included a special Artful Chances program sponsored by Tiffany & Co. in the Village of Merrick Park and included a cruise on Cunard's QM2. We had over one thousand guests and raised more than $700,000 for the museum's programs. The Late Night Party this year was co-chaired by Ricky Elias, Natalia Miyar, Carla and Marlon Hill, and Tracy and David Moret. Held in the same space as the For the Love of Art Ball, the party attracted over one hundred and fifty guests and lasted until the wee hours. Thanks to all our civic leaders and to MAM's many generous supporters for this resounding success.

Suzanne Delehanty, Director
